EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, €50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services.

Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Geopolitical uncertainties, high inflation, and the expectation of rising interest rates important trends of the past months continued in April. US Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell stated that the Federal Reserve Bank (Fed) would decide on an interest-rate increase of 0.5 % in May. The European Central Bank (ECB), which so far only wants to reduce its bond purchases, was more cautious. There were significant movements on the foreign exchange market: the US dollar gained 4.7% against the euro in April. The appreciation of the "Greenback" limited the losses on the US stock market for European investors. Nevertheless, the global MSCI World equity index (in euro terms) fell by 3.3 %. April was also turbulent on the bond market. Yields on 10-year US Treasuries reached 2.9 % at the end of the month, the highest level since 2018. After the yield on 10-year German Bunds had still been in negative territory for a few days at the beginning of March, it almost reached the one per cent mark in April. The expectation of rising key interest rates led to yield increases and weighed on bond prices. Thus, the German government bond index REXP lost 1.5 % in April. These turbulent developments were absorbed by the Fund through hedging on the equity and bond side, and the performance remained unchanged in a monthly comparison. Primarily, our hedges against rising yields for our bond holdings in US dollars and euros had an effect here. The weakness of the equity markets had only a minor effect due to hedging via derivatives (index futures). We are maintaining our cautious approach and are keeping the interest-rate risk in the eurozone low in particular. Only in the USA did we slightly increase our interest-rate duration by reducing our interest-rate derivative positions due to the already priced-in significant rise in yields on two-year to 30-year bonds.

Flossbach von Storch - Der erste Schritt - R

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).
- + Risk is broadly diversified by investing in a range of asset classes (e.g. equities, bonds, convertible bonds etc.) Market potential can be exploited by investing across a wide range.

RISKS

- The securities in which the Management Company invests the sub-fund assets present opportunities for gain but also the possibility of risk. If a sub-fund invests directly or indirectly in securities and other assets, it is subject to many general trends and tendencies, which are sometimes attributable to irrational factors on the markets particularly on the securities markets. Losses can occur when the market value of the assets decreases as against the cost price. If a unitholder sells units of the sub-fund at a time at which the value of assets in the sub-fund has decreased compared with the time of the unit purchase, he will not receive the full amount he has invested in the sub-fund. Despite the fact that each sub-fund aspires constant growth, this cannot be guaranteed.
- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

The historical data used for calculating the synthetic indicator is not a reliable indication of the future risk and reward profile of the share class. The category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time. Even the lowest category does not mean a risk-free investment. This share class has been placed in the aforementioned risk class because its unit price is subject to little to medium fluctuation, therefore the profit potential and loss exposure may be low to moderate. Because of the calculation model used, all risks may not be taken into consideration when placing the share class in a risk class.
