

Flossbach von Storch - Global Emerging Markets Equities - R

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Flossbach von Storch - Global Emerging Markets Equities is a globally diversified equity fund with an active investment approach. Its investment focus is on high-growth, quality companies from emerging markets as well as first-class companies from industrialised nations that generate a significant portion of their sales in emerging markets. Decisive factors in the selection of individual securities are the sustainability of the business model, competitive advantages, the quality of the management, as well as high sales visibility and profit margin stability. In addition, factors such as the institutional framework conditions, monetary and fiscal policy, inflation rates and currency development of the respective country flow into the evaluation process. The goal is to generate sustainable positive returns. In principle, there are no restrictions on the size of the companies. Sufficient liquidity is a prerequisite. Other in-house valuation models include ESG questions, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria defined within the framework of the Sub-Fund's investment policy are taken into account. The Sub-Fund is actively managed. The portfolio is composed by the fund manager exclusively in accordance with the criteria defined in the investment policy, reviewed regularly and adjusted if necessary. The performance of the Sub-Fund is compared using the MSCI Emerging Markets Daily Net Total Return Index as a benchmark. The Investment Manager is not linked to the Index at any time when making investment decisions and the portfolio composition. Therefore, the performance of the Sub-Fund may differ significantly from the benchmark shown. The Sub-Fund is classified as an Article 8 product under the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR). For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5 %, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Emerging market equities fell in November and performed significantly worse than the global equity market. The latter benefited in particular from the strength of US equities, which rose thanks to the prospect of greater deregulation and falling corporate taxes, as well as a strong US dollar. Trump's announcement that he intended to impose tariffs on imported goods from Mexico and China (or increase existing tariffs) weighed on investors in the emerging markets. In addition, the meeting of the National People's Congress in China did not deliver the hoped-for breakthrough in terms of more concrete support measures for the economy. In the portfolio, the shares of the world's largest credit card network, Visa, performed best in the past month. The company continues to benefit from the trend towards cashless payments and has sustainable competitive advantages in the form of network effects and a strong brand. The shares of India's HDFC Bank also increased, although credit growth in India has slowed somewhat recently and the stock market has corrected. Investors seem to appreciate the company's high earnings visibility and the defensive nature of the stock. The stock of Indian IT service provider Tata Consultancy Services also performed well. Although customers are still reluctant to place new orders, the company has a strong deal pipeline and has hired over 10,000 new employees in the past two quarters. Among the biggest losers, conversely, were the shares of Brazilian digital bank Nu Holdings. Investors were unsettled by the rising budget deficit, which could cause the Brazilian central bank to raise interest rates further due to rising inflation expectations. This could have a temporary negative impact on the bank's credit growth and interest margin. The shares of Chinese e-commerce providers Alibaba and Meituan also declined. While the former is growing somewhat more slowly than the market, the latter has recently posted strong revenue growth but gave a cautious outlook for the current quarter. Both companies are also suffering from the ongoing weakness in consumer spending in China.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + These funds aim to exploit growth opportunities on global equity markets.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Equity markets and thus also unit values can experience severe fluctuations in response to market developments. The result can be a fall in the trading price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a negative impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).
- Investments in emerging markets – in addition to the specific risks of the asset class itself – are particularly exposed to liquidity risk and general market risk.
- In emerging markets the legal and regulatory environment as well as accounting, auditing and reporting standards may also vary considerably from the levels and standards that are otherwise common internationally.
- Higher custody risk.
- There is a risk from the possible investment in Chinese A-Shares, including possible additional clearing and settlement risks, as well as legal, operational, and risks in the form of limitations to investment opportunities.

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

INVESTOR PROFILE

SPECULATIVE:

The fund is appropriate for speculative investors. Due to the composition of the net sub-fund assets, there is a very high degree of risk but also a very high degree of profit potential. The risks may consist in particular of currency risk, credit risk and price risk, as well as market interest rate risks.

INVESTMENT HORIZON:

Long-term: over 5 years

RISK INDICATOR

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level, and poor market conditions could impact our capacity to pay you.
