

Flossbach von Storch - Global Emerging Markets Equities - R

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Flossbach von Storch - Global Emerging Markets Equities is a globally diversified equity fund with an active investment approach. Its investment focus is on high-growth, quality companies from emerging markets as well as first-class companies from industrialised nations that generate a significant portion of their sales in emerging markets. Decisive factors in the selection of individual securities are the sustainability of the business model, competitive advantages, the quality of the management, as well as high sales visibility and profit margin stability. In addition, factors such as the institutional framework conditions, monetary and fiscal policy, inflation rates and currency development of the respective country flow into the evaluation process. The goal is to generate sustainable positive returns. In principle, there are no restrictions on the size of the companies. Sufficient liquidity is a prerequisite. Other in-house valuation models include ESG questions, engagement, and voting. In addition, exclusion criteria defined within the framework of the Sub-Fund's investment policy are taken into account. The Sub-Fund is actively managed. The portfolio is composed by the fund manager exclusively in accordance with the criteria defined in the investment policy, reviewed regularly and adjusted if necessary. The performance of the Sub-Fund is compared using the MSCI Emerging Markets Daily Net Total Return Index as a benchmark. The Investment Manager is not linked to the Index at any time when making investment decisions and the portfolio composition. Therefore, the performance of the Sub-Fund may differ significantly from the benchmark shown. The Sub-Fund is categorized as an Article 8 product under the Disclosure Regulation (EU) 2019/2088 (SFDR). For detailed information on the objectives and investment policy, please refer to the most recent sales prospectus and the Key Information Document (PRIIP-KID).

EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, €50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

Emerging market equities, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets, recorded moderate price gains in January. The markets in Brazil and Mexico in particular recovered noticeably, supported by appreciating currencies. In Asia, some markets remained closed for a few days due to the Chinese New Year. In India, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman presented the budget plan for the fiscal year that is about to start there. The focus is on strengthening the purchasing power of the middle class. Shares in Latin American digital bank Nu Holdings rose sharply last month. The share thus recovered a large part of the losses from the previous weeks. After the Brazilian central bank raised the key interest rate by 100 basis points to 13.25% and the real recently appreciated again against the US dollar, market participants expected an improvement in macroeconomic development. The shares of Latin American e-commerce and fintech provider Mercadolibre also closed higher. Here, too, a large part of the losses from the previous weeks were recouped. As the company reports its figures in US dollars but generates the majority of its sales in Brazilian real and Mexican pesos, the currency trend is likely to remain an important price driver in the short term. Shares in the Taiwanese contract manufacturer for semiconductor products TSMC also rose. Demand for high-performance computing chips, in the production of which the company has a monopoly-like market position, remains strong. The news that the Chinese start-up DeepSeek has developed an AI application that requires significantly less computing power than other providers initially caused TSMC's share price to fall. However, the share price quickly recovered. In contrast, the shares of Indian HDFC Bank were on the losing side in the month under review. The company continues to focus on improving key balance sheet ratios, such as the ratio of loans to customer deposits. This will lead to a decline in earnings momentum in the short term but will improve the bank's long-term growth prospects. Shares in Chinese internet company Tencent were also among the losers. The USA has blacklisted the company due to alleged links to the Chinese military. Although this Pentagon blacklist does not provide for any specific sanctions, it initially unsettled investors. Tencent denies any links to the military. Shares in pan-Asian insurance group AIA also fell. There was no significant company-specific news.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + These funds aim to exploit growth opportunities on global equity markets.
- + Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a positive impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- + Derivatives can be used to increase potential yields.

RISKS

- Equity markets and thus also unit values can experience severe fluctuations in response to market developments. The result can be a fall in the trading price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in assets denominated in a foreign currency can have a negative impact on unit values as a result of exchange rate movements.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).
- Investments in emerging markets – in addition to the specific risks of the asset class itself – are particularly exposed to liquidity risk and general market risk.
- In emerging markets the legal and regulatory environment as well as accounting, auditing and reporting standards may also vary considerably from the levels and standards that are otherwise common internationally.
- Higher custody risk.
- There is a risk from the possible investment in Chinese A-Shares, including possible additional clearing and settlement risks, as well as legal, operational, and risks in the form of limitations to investment opportunities.

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

INVESTOR PROFILE

SPECULATIVE:

The fund is appropriate for speculative investors. Due to the composition of the net sub-fund assets, there is a very high degree of risk but also a very high degree of profit potential. The risks may consist in particular of currency risk, credit risk and price risk, as well as market interest rate risks.

INVESTMENT HORIZON:

Long-term: over 5 years

RISK INDICATOR

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 5 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 4 out of 7, which is a medium risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a medium level, and poor market conditions could impact our capacity to pay you.
