EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, €50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

At the start of November, the US presidential election took centre stage on the global bond markets. Following the noticeable upward trend in US yields in October, particularly in comparison to their European counterparts, market concerns about rising issue volumes for US Treasuries culminated in the context of announced tax cuts and higher fiscal spending in the wake of Donald Trump's clear election victory. In the second half of the month, the renewed flare-up of geopolitical risks and the hope that US fiscal policy would perhaps become a little less excessive against the backdrop of appointments to key government departments led to a recovery in US Treasuries. On balance, US yields were little changed. Euro bonds, conversely, were largely able to escape the weakness on the US bond market in the first half of the month and then continued their rally in the wake of significantly weaker purchasing managers' indices. This has fuelled market expectations of easing by the European Central Bank (ECB) to a now ambitious 130 basis points (bps) by mid-2025 – while only slightly more than two interest-rate cuts (of 25 bps each) are being priced in for the US Federal Reserve over the same period. Overall, German Bunds traded around 25 bps lower across the various maturities in a monthly comparison. The US election divided the picture for corporate bonds from the eurozone and the USA. While hopes of fiscal stimulus in the USA caused spreads to fall, they rose in some cases in Europe, particularly due to concerns about looming trade conflicts. Added to this were structural growth problems in the eurozone and political uncertainties in Germany and France. The more offensive duration with a focus on the euro paid off and we were able to participate in the euro interest-rate rally. The slightly unfavourable development of European corporate bond spreads was of little consequence due to our focus on good quality. Our moderately open currency component in US dollars also had a supportive effect. At the end of the month, we reduced the duration slightly in anticipation of profit-taking. Diversification in the Anglo-Saxon interest-rate markets was further expanded in favour of investments in New Zealand and Australia.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
---	---	---	---	---	---	---

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 2 out of 7, which is a low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a low level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you.
