EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

In September, global bond yields fell further, hitting new annual lows in the USA. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) cut its key interest rate range by 50 basis points (bps) to 4.75%–5.00%, thereby initiating its long-awaited cycle of interest-rate cuts. This first pronounced interest-rate change was justified by the recent weakening of the labour market. The decision reflects the shift in the Fed’s dual mandate focus – away from price stability and towards supporting the labour market. This led to significantly lower yields (and thus higher prices), particularly for US bonds with short maturities, while yields at the long end remained largely unchanged. The US yield curve thus had a positive slope again for the first time since 2022. As expected, the European Central Bank (ECB) cut its key interest rate for the second time, by 25 bps to 3.50%. While ECB President Christine Lagarde initially gave no indication of additional easing in October, further weakness in the purchasing managers’ indices and preliminary inflation data fuelled market expectations. This also led to lower yields for short-dated euro bonds. Spreads on corporate bonds were almost unchanged in a month-on-month comparison. It remains the case that the risk premiums for weaker credit ratings are low and that higher quality ratings are valued relatively more attractively. In the portfolio, we took profits on the rally in short-dated bonds following interest-rate cuts, especially in the USA. The offensive portfolio duration was retained for the time being, with some shifts towards longer maturities. We made few structural changes to the allocation of corporate bonds, although we took advantage of the temporary weakness in cyclical securities towards the end of the month to make initial purchases and small increases.

Flossbach von Storch - Bond Opportunities - R

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

---	---	---	---	---	---	---

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 2 out of 7, which is a low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a low level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you.
