EXPLANATORY NOTES REGARDING PERFORMANCE

Gross fund performance (BVI method) takes into account all costs incurred at fund level (for example, management fees), net fund performance also takes into account the subscription fee. Further costs may be charged individually at customer level (e.g. custody fees, commissions and other charges). Example calculation (net method): An investor wishes to buy shares with capital of €1,000. Based on a maximum subscription fee of 5%, € 50 will be deducted from their investment as a one-off initial charge. In addition, custody fees may also be applied, which will further reduce the investor's return. The level of custody fees can be found in your bank's schedule of fees and services. Please refer to the cost details presented in this document to determine the maximum subscription fee for the share class of the sub-fund. The reference index is merely informative. It does not constitute any obligation from the fund manager to track the index or achieve the same performance. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY

At the start of the month, the bond-market focus was on the weak US labour market report. This confirmed the picture of a marked slowdown in US job growth (as in previous months) and initially caused yields on US bonds to fall. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) took this development into account in its interest-rate decision and, after a lengthy pause, eased its rates by 25 basis points (bps) for the first time since December. In its report, the Fed signalled that the risks to its dual mandate had shifted back towards employment, but Fed Chair Jerome Powell and other Fed members subsequently (surprisingly) countered this. This dampened speculation about further interest-rate cuts somewhat, with the result that US yields for short- and medium-term maturities remained largely unchanged over the month but were noticeably lower at the (ultra-) long end. At its meeting in September, the European Central Bank (ECB) left its key interest rate unchanged once again (deposit rate: 2%) and its continued wait-and-see stance led to slightly higher yields for short and medium maturities. In the (ultra-) long range, however, yields declined slightly in September. Overall, risk premiums remained largely unchanged over the month. A temporary slight oversupply of new euro-denominated corporate bond issues immediately after the summer break dissipated again during September. As a result, spreads fell back to their previous very low levels.

MONTHLY COMMENTARY - CONTINUED

The political crisis in France receded somewhat, at least for the time being, with the appointment of the new Prime Minister Sébastien Lecornu and the resumption of budget negotiations. However, the rating agency Fitch downgraded France by one notch from AA- to A+. In contrast, at the end of the month, Spain's rating was raised by one notch to A3/A+/A by all three major agencies. With interest rates falling at the start of the month, we realised initial gains primarily on US futures and options with shorter maturities, but also on Bund futures. A little later, various euro corporate bonds were also sold following the recovery of spreads, as were quasi-government issuers and covered bonds. Both were accompanied by the repurchase of hedges in euro interest-rate swaps or participation in new issues of corporate bonds and initial positions in the pound sterling bond market. Overall, cash holdings remained slightly higher.

OPPORTUNITIES

- + Participate in global bond market growth.
- + Income can be generated from regular interest payments.
- + Active interest rate, currency and risk management (e.g. from the use of derivatives).

RISKS

- Country, credit and issuer liquidity risk. Also potential exchange rate risks. If securities are illiquid (i.e. thinly traded), there is a risk that it may either not be possible to sell the assets at all or only by accepting a significant discount on the sale price. ESG criteria can restrict the selection of target investments in terms of category and number, sometimes considerably.
- Investing in bonds may entail price risks, especially in case of rising interest rates on the capital markets.
- Where used, derivatives can have a greater negative impact on the fund value than would be the case if the assets were acquired directly. This can affect the fund's risk profile and volatility (tendency for the price to fluctuate).

Please read the Prospectus and particularly the RISK WARNINGS section and the specific annex of the subfund to understand the risks and benefits of this product.

INVESTOR PROFILE

CONSERVATIVE:

The fund is appropriate for conservative investors. Due to the composition of the net sub-fund assets, there is a moderate degree of risk but also a moderate degree of profit potential. The risks may consist in particular of currency risk, credit risk and price risk, as well as market interest rate risks.

INVESTMENT HORIZON:

Medium-term: 3 to 5 years

RISK INDICATOR

Lower risk ← Higher risk →

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
---	---	---	---	---	---	---

The risk indicator assumes you keep the product for 3 years. The actual risk can vary significantly if you cash in at an early stage and you may get back less. The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 2 out of 7, which is a low risk class. This rates the potential losses from future performance at a low level, and poor market conditions are very unlikely to impact our capacity to pay you.
